Item 8.01. Other Events.

On February 16, 2018, the New York City Tax Appeals Tribunal (the “Tribunal”) issued a decision against a subsidiary of Vornado Realty Trust and assessed additional New York City real property transfer taxes. This decision reversed a January 2017 determination of a New York City administrative law judge that those New York City real property transfer taxes were not due. The Company has two other subsidiaries that received Notices of Determination issued by the New York City Department of Finance assessing additional real property transfer tax where the underlying facts related to these assessments are similar to those in the case ruled on by the Tribunal. Although the Company intends to appeal the Tribunal’s decision, as a result of that decision the Company estimates that it will record an expense in the quarter ended March 31, 2018 for these three subsidiaries’ share of the amount of the assessment/potential assessments of approximately $21.9 million (after allocation of $9.5 million to noncontrolling interests), or $0.11 per diluted share, which will be included in “net income attributable to common shareholders” and will be excluded from “net income attributable to common shareholders, as adjusted.” On a Funds from Operations (“FFO”) basis, the $21.9 million of expense will be included in “total FFO” and will be excluded from “FFO, as adjusted.” This expense includes $13.9 million of real property transfer taxes and $8.0 million of interest.

Certain statements contained herein may constitute "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Such forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which may cause the actual results, performance or achievements of the Company to be materially different from any future results, performance or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. The Company notes that its statement regarding an appeal of the Tribunal’s decision is a forward-looking statement. There can be no assurance that any such appeal will be successful. For a discussion of factors that could materially affect the outcome of our other forward-looking statements and our future results and financial condition, see "Risk Factors" in Part I, Item 1A, of our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2017. Such factors include, among others, risks associated with the timing of and costs associated with property improvements, financing commitments and general competitive factors.
