JANUS CAPITAL STRENGTHENS EUROPEAN INSTITUTIONAL SALES FORCE

Former UBS Executive Howard Nowell Named Head of UK Institutional Sales

LONDON – Janus Capital International Limited, the international arm of Janus Capital Group Inc. (NYSE: JNS), today announced the appointment of former UBS Global Asset Management (UBS) Executive Howard Nowell as head of Janus’ UK institutional sales.

Nowell will oversee Janus’ institutional sales activities for UK corporate and local-authority pension plans. Janus also strengthened its European institutional sales team by naming Henrik Rox Hansen, currently the firm’s institutional director for Northern Europe, as director of Janus’ continental European institutional business. Nowell and Hansen will both report to Erich Gerth, chief executive officer of Janus Capital International Limited.

Nowell comes to Janus Capital from UBS where he was responsible for marketing the firm’s institutional strategies to UK corporate pension plans. He has more than 15 years experience in the investment and pensions industry. Prior to joining UBS in 2004, Nowell spent six years with KPMG’s Pensions and People Services divisions and seven years with Eagle Star Life.

In announcing the appointment, Gerth said he was impressed with Nowell’s strong mix of consultancy and business development experience.

“Howard’s appointment reflects our continued emphasis on strengthening our rapidly growing European institutional business,” said Gerth. “He brings a sound understanding of the UK pensions market and his strong background in business development will be a great asset as we continue to gain recognition for the Janus and INTECH product ranges amongst consultants and UK pension plans”.
